THE LATE SHIFT

NBC NIXES PRIME-TIME LENO SHOW; CONAN, FALLON BRACE FOR CHANGE

Associated Press

PASADENA, Calif. NBC said Sunday it's waiting to hear if Jay Leno and "Tonight" host Conan O'Brien will accept its new late-night TV plans after the network decided to end the Leno prime-time experiment.

NBC decided to pull the plug on the experiment after learning some affiliates were considering dropping the nightly prime-time show.

NBC Universal Television Entertainment Chairman Jeff Gaspin said "The Jay Leno Show" at 9 p.m. CST will end with the Feb. 12 beginning of the Winter Olympics, which will air in the prime-time hours, including Leno's slot.

NBC wants to begin airing Leno's show at 10:35 p.m. after the Olympics end Feb. 28, but with a half-hour show, Gaspin said.

The plan calls for O'Brien to retain his job with "Tonight" but at the later hour of 11:05 a.m. CST, Gaspin said. Also in the mix is Jimmy Fallon and his "Late Night." Fallon's show would be pushed a half-hour later as well, to 12:05 a.m. CST.

"My goal is to keep Jay, Conan and Jimmy as our late-night line-up," Gaspin said, adding later that they "have the weekend to think about it" and discussions with them will resume Monday.

He said the proposal gives Leno what's important to him—telling jokes at a later hour—and O'Brien his top priority, retaining "Tonight."

"I hope and expect that before the Olympics begin, we'll have everything set. I can't imagine we won't have everything in place before then," Gaspin told a meeting of the Television Critics Association.

He said that despite lower ratings for NBC at 9 p.m. compared to last year, the network was making money off the show.

But affiliates were upset that it was leading fewer viewers into their late news programs, costing them significant advertising revenue. Some affiliates told NBC in December they would go public soon about their complaints if a change wasn't made, or even take Leno's show off the air.

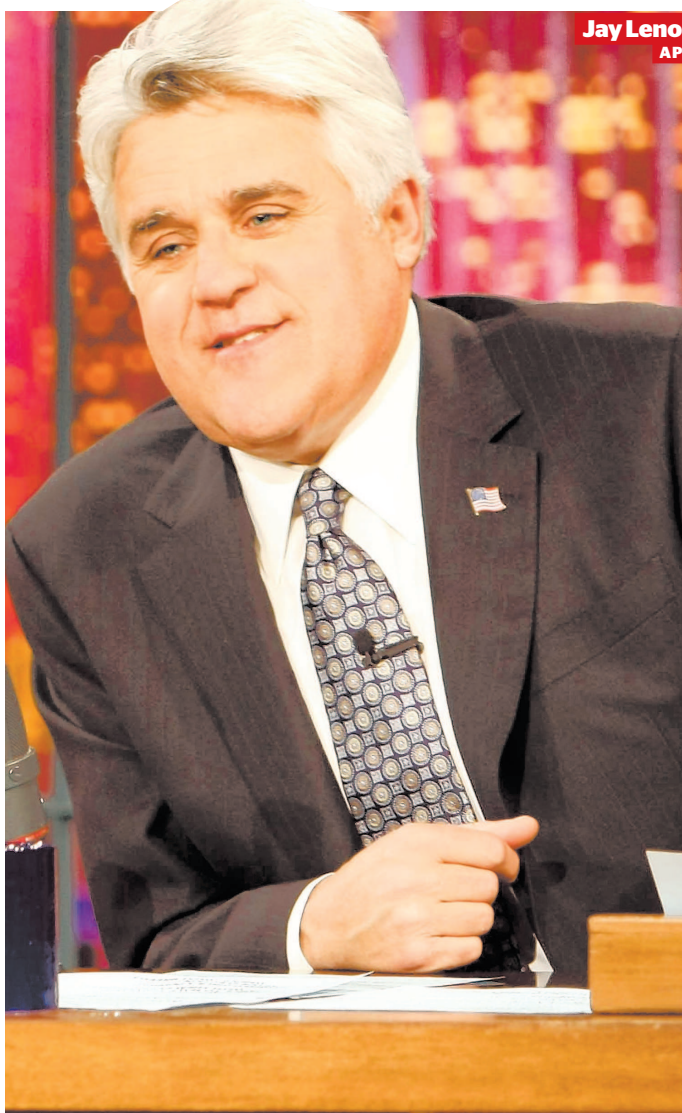

Gaspin said about one-third

FILLING IN THE BLANKS

The shake-up will leave a gaping hole in NBC's prime-time schedule, at a time the network is already struggling. A mix of reality programming, "Dateline NBC" and at least two hours of scripted shows will be added to fill in the five hours taken up by Leno's prime-time show each week.

of the affiliates were really hurt by the Leno show, although he wasn't clear on how many said they might pre-empt his show.

"I asked [the affiliates] how many are they talking about, because I could have lived with one or two. But I got the sense that it was more than one or two," he said.

THE BIRDS AND THE ... BEARS Pandas getting busy at National Zoo

Two pandas at the National Zoo attempted to mate before zoo officials determined they had not been successful and artificially inseminated the female, Mei Xiang.

Zoo officials say Mei Xiang and Tian

Tian tried to mate Saturday night. After carefully observing the pair for several hours and determining mating had not been successful, the pair were anesthetized and semen from Taian Tian was removed to inseminate Mei Xiang. Zoo officials say timing is critical in panda mating because there is only about one day a year in which conception can occur. AP

Study says U.S. flight crackdown lacks bite

Associated Press

ATLANTA The government's new crackdown on chronically late flights leaves airlines with little reason to be concerned—and delayed travelers little reason to feel hopeful they'll arrive on time.

The rule, announced days before the Christmas travel rush, defines chronic tardiness so narrowly that it would have applied to only 55 recurring flights out of the 13,981 that qualified from January to November, according to an analysis by the aviation data research firm FlightCaster for The Associated Press. All 55 flights were to or from the New York City area's three airports.

That's unlikely to provide much relief to passengers who just want to get from Point A to Point B on time. Even the few airlines that are at risk of violating the rule can escape the up to $27,500 fine by adjusting their schedules or canceling flights.

Transportation Secretary Ray LaHood announced the rule Dec. 21 as part of what he called President Obama's "Passenger Bill of Rights." Besides cracking down on chronically late flights, the Transportation Department also said it will impose stiff fines on airlines that trap passengers on tarmacs for more than three hours. The rules, which don't require congressional approval, take effect in April.

NOTABLE:

Even if airlines have a chronically delayed flight under the new rule, there still are ways of getting around it. Airlines can fix the few flights that could violate the rule by padding their schedules—adding minutes to the scheduled length of the flights so they are logged as on-time.

QUOTABLE:

Is it OK to grieve in 140 characters?

The world may never have heard of 2-year-old Bryson Ross if it weren't for Twitter. More specifically, if it weren't for Bryson's mother tweeting last month after her son fell into a backyard swimming pool and died.

When Casey Johnson, the heiress to the Johnson & Johnson fortune and girlfriend of reality TV star Tila Tequila, died last week, Tequila poured her heart out over Twitter. She wasn't alone. So did Lindsay Lohan and Paris Hilton.

Johnson

In both situations, a heated debate ensued. Some immediately questioned sharing such intimate feelings with people they've never met online, while others credited the mourners with opening up and sharing.

That raises quite an interesting question: Is it in poor taste to mourn in public via a social network like Facebook or Twitter?

I say not at all. We all mourn differently.

When Ross tweeted about her son's death, the replies were fast and furious.

Too many people automatically assumed she was neglecting her child because she uses Twitter. Tweeting had nothing to do with what happened to Ross' son, and using Twitter as a coping mechanism was her business. She grieved with the people with whom she identified most—and those people just happened to live online.

The anger in the Ross case seems to be associated less with the tweet and more with when she tweeted. According to official records, Ross called 911 at 5:38 p.m. and explained that she found her son at the bottom of the pool.

Less than an hour later, she posted the following tweet: "Please pray like never before, my 2 yr old fell in the pool."

The tweets from Tequila, Lohan and Hilton weren't as controversial. That in itself had Twitter users questioning why we'd attack a mother who tweeted about the loss of her son but not a celebrity who was mourning the loss of her girlfriend.

As someone who works online and spends a lot of time online, I look at it this way. I have my close friends and I have my online friends. Even if they aren't friends in the traditional sense, they're people I trust. At the very least, I feel comfortable sharing personal details with them.

In both of these cases, it's unfair to judge a person in 140 characters or less.

What are your thoughts about mourning via social media? Tweet me, poke me, just tell me.

Empowerment experiment

Couple reflects on year of buying only from black-owned businesses

Chicago Tribune

It's been a year since John and Maggie Anderson, a black couple who rose from modest beginnings to academic and economic success, embarked on a controversial adventure in empowerment to spend their money exclusively with African-American-owned businesses in 2009.

They've learned a few things, not the least of which was that they were a little naive.

"It was more difficult, to be honest," Maggie Anderson said as the year concluded. "We went out all starry-eyed."

As with most wisdom, the more meaningful lessons emerge from demanding struggles. So it was with the "Empowerment Experiment," said the Andersons, of Oak Park.

"There were certainly some challenges," John Anderson said. "But at the same time, the relationships we have cultivated—not only with the business owners but also in mobilizing so many people across the nation who have embraced the message—that's been the biggest blessing of this whole year. It has been a wonderful year."

The most discouraging challenge came in August, when the black-owned, full-service grocery store they would drive 14 miles to patronize closed. The couple also had to face jaded perspectives from other African-Americans who told the Andersons that black-owned businesses were inferior to white-owned enterprises and that the couple's over-arching goal of creating robust black businesses would never work.

And facing them at almost every turn was the insistence from some whites that the Andersons' experiment was an exercise in racism, a charge they reject.

The effort, particularly in the last three months, generated a great deal of momentum, the Andersons said. Maggie Anderson received an overwhelming response when

ACROSS THE AIRWAVES

After sharing their story in the Tribune in March, the Andersons gained widespread media exposure. They were interviewed on CNN, Fox News and CBS Morning News.

she spoke at Friendship-West Baptist Church in Dallas. She also was the opening speaker at the Illinois Black Chamber of Commerce meeting in September.

A week later, she spoke at the Congressional Black Caucus' annual convention in Washington. Northwestern University's Kellogg Black Alumni Club honored the Andersons in November. Overall, John Anderson said, about 75 percent of the reaction the couple received was encouraging. The remainder was critical.

"There was a feeling that now we have really created a vehicle to force ourselves to look into the mirror and address some of the issues we don't want to talk about," John Anderson said.

WEEKEND CTA ROUNDUP

Red Line rider: Men yelled gay slurs during beating

A Rogers Park man said three men yelled gay slurs at him and beat him up on a Red Line train around 3 a.m. Sunday near the Argyle stop.

Daniel Hauff, 33, said he tried to quell an argument between two men on the northbound train when one of those men—joined by two other male riders—began yelling gay slurs and other taunts at him.

The three men punched his face and pummeled his body somewhere between the Wilson and Argyle stops, Hauff said. Hauff said he got away by wiping some of his blood on the attackers and telling them he was HIV-positive, which he said is not true.

Police said three men were arrested in the 1100 block of West Argyle on suspicion of battering Hauff and "making disparaging comments," though the report had nothing specific about anti-gay comments.

Red, Blue Lines running after service issues

The South Shore Line and CTA Red and Blue line all experienced service issues Sunday, but all were back to normal by afternoon.

Police reported that at 9:55 a.m., a person was found on the Blue Line tracks near the Monroe station. CTA officials said the incident involved a southbound Blue Line and that the power was cut off between UIC/Halsted station and the Clark/Lake station. Officials said the person involved was conscious.

Meanwhile, South Shore train service was temporarily suspended because of overhead wire problems near Ogden Dunes.

The CTA said that southbound Red Line trains were running late earlier Sunday because of equipment problems around the Loyola station on the north end of the line.

Theft victim stabs robbers on Green Line; 5 charged

Five people face charges related to an attack and robbery of a Forest Park man early Saturday that started as he watched a movie on his iPod while riding on a CTA Green Line train on the West Side, authorities said.

The 26-year-old Forest Park man was robbed about 12:55 a.m. Saturday, police said.

Charged with robbery in the incident were Tommie Bates, Robert Moore, Jaylin Tiggs and Kendall A. Harris; charged with misdemeanor obstruction of a police officer was Tyeisha Underwood, of the 4400 block of West Congress Parkway, police said.

Bates, of the 5900 block of West Iowa Street, and Moore, of the 5100 block of West Iowa Street, both were hospitalized at West Suburban Medical Center with stab wounds suffered in the attack.

One of the four punched the victim in the face after he was robbed, according to Assistant State's Attorney Angel Essig. The victim then pulled a knife and stabbed at least two of the alleged would-be robbers, she said. TRIBUNE

GOP calls for Reid's ouster in wake of racial comments

7 WASHINGTON Republicans on Sunday accused Democrats of a double standard by accepting Sen. Harry Reid's apology for racial remarks about President Obama instead of demanding Reid's ouster as majority leader.

In a private conversation reported in a new book, Reid described Obama during the 2008 presidential campaign as a "light-skinned" African-American "with no Negro dialect, unless he wanted to have one."

Reid (D-Nev.) apologized to Obama on Saturday, and the president issued a statement accepting the apology and saying the matter was closed.

GOP Chairman Michael Steele, in appearances on two Sunday news programs, compared Reid's predicament with the circumstances that led Senate Republican leader Trent Lott to step down from that post in 2002. Lott had spoken favorably of the 1948 segregationist presidential campaign of Strom Thurmond, and in spite of apologies for those remarks at Thurmond's 100th birthday, Lott was forced out as leader.

"There is this standard where the Democrats feel that they can say these things and they can apologize when it comes from the mouths of their own. But if it comes from anyone else, it's racism," said Steele, who is black. "It's either racist or it's not. And it's inappropriate, absolutely."

Sen. John Cornyn (R-Texas), the chairman of the National Republican Senatorial Committee, said in a statement that Reid should step down, calling his comments "embarrassing and racially insensitive."

Risky liquid silicone shots sought on black market

8 NEW YORK Clara Tolentino was terrified when her 43-year-old sister died last year after getting liquid silicone injections to add a bit more shape to her buttocks.

Tolentino, 35, had good reason to be. In 2006, she paid $2,000 to get liquid silicone injections, too.

"I didn't do it as many times as my sister ... But I was afraid," Tolentino, who lives in the Bronx, said. "I was afraid that something was going to happen to me."

Her sister, Fiordaliza Pichardo, died in March. According to an autopsy, about 1,400 milligrams of silicone were in her lungs. Fresh injection sites dotted her thighs and buttocks. The New York City medical examiner's office said the cause of death was silicone pulmonary embolism.

In the United States, liquid silicone is not approved for cosmetic injections. It can kill, disfigure and cause long-term health problems. Still, it is avidly sought on the black market by untrained providers for those women who desire rounder breasts, buttocks and more shapely thighs.

CHEESED OFF

Record-setting shootout ends with Cards chasing Packers out of playoffs

Associated Press

GLENDAL, Ariz. Old master Kurt Warner and playoff newcomer Aaron Rodgers staged a passing duel to rival any the NFL has seen. And when the highest-scoring postseason game in league history ended abruptly in overtime, Rodgers flung his helmet to the sideline in disgust.

He can blame the Arizona defense for his misery.

Karlos Dansby returned Rodgers' fumble 17 yards for a touchdown to give the Arizona Cardinals a 51-45 victory over the Green Bay Packers on Sunday.

Rodgers, who started the game with an interception but was marvelous after, was stripped by Michael Adams. The ball careened off Rodgers' foot and into the hands of Dansby, who ran untouched for the score.

"He made a sack, the ball went in the air, I just made a play on the ball," Dansby said.

The reigning NFC champion Cardinals (11-6) rushed the field to celebrate.

"That's probably one of the best games ever played in the playoffs," Cardinals coach Ken Whisenhunt said.

Warner completed 29 of 33 for 379 yards with five touchdowns and no interceptions. Rodgers was 28-of-42 for 422 yards and four TDs. All but two of Rodgers' yards came after the first quarter.

"It's clearly one of the toughest losses I've been a part of," Green Bay coach Mike McCarthy said. "I'm very proud of our football team and fight. This is a hard game to swallow."

The previous high for combined points in a postseason game was 95 in Philadelphia's 58-37 win over Detroit on Dec. 30, 1995.

It was the most points scored and allowed by the Packers (11-6) in their storied 41-game playoff history.

Dansby started and ended the game with big plays. He broke up Rodgers' game-opening pass and Dominique Rodgers-Cromartie intercepted it.

The next time the Packers got the ball,

Dansby stripped Donald Driver and Arizona's Alan Branch recovered.

The previous playoff game to end on a defensive touchdown was Jan. 4, 2004, when Al Harris returned an interception 52 yards for a touchdown in Green Bay's 33-27 win over Seattle.

THE WHIZZER REPORT

Like Tom Brady, I am leaving the first round of the NFL playoffs disappointed. Unlike Tom Brady, I do not have Gisele Bundchen waiting for me at home. In Friday's issue, I put my prognosticating powers to the test, and I failed. I guess that reader who e-mailed RedEye, questioning a cartoon dog's qualifications, has a point. Congratulations, smart guy. Kudos also to the five people who texted me and beat my predictions. Next time, send me your name. Here now, my miserable picks.

N.Y. Jets at Cincinnati

Prediction: Cincinnati 27, N.Y. Jets 19

Reality: N.Y. Jets 24, Cincinnati 14

Baltimore at New England

Prediction: New England 17, Baltimore 10

Reality: Baltimore 33, New England 14

Bears candidates coming

As the Bears seek to fill their coaching vacancies, it is looking more and more like Jeremy Bates and Perry Fewell are the leading candidates to become the team's offensive coordinator and defensive coordinator, respectively.

Fewell is scheduled to interview with Bears coach Lovie Smith for the defensive coordinator position Monday, although it will be more of a visit than an interview. Smith and Fewell worked together in St. Louis and in Chicago, so they know each other well.

As for Bates, he is scheduled to fly to Chicago on Monday and interview Tuesday. The Bears are interested in Bates because of the success he had working with Jay Cutler in 2008 in Denver. TRIBUNE

The Brady crunch

Associated Press
FOXBOROUGH, Mass. Not even the NFL's Comeback Player of the Year could bring the New England Patriots back from the deficit they fell into Sunday.

Two-time Super Bowl MVP Tom Brady threw three interceptions and also fumbled the ball away in a first-round playoff game against Baltimore as the Ravens opened a 24-point first-quarter lead en route to a 33-14 victory.

"We got off to a terrible start in the first quarter and never really got back into the game," Brady said. "Playing the way we played today, we weren't going to beat anybody."

The Patriots have now lost consecutive play-off games for the first time in the Brady era, a decade of dominance that included three Super Bowl titles and a 16-0 record in the 2007 regular season that was tainted only by David Tyree's acrobatic catch in the Super Bowl loss to the New York Giants.

But this year's run never got going.

Ray Rice ran 83 yards for a touchdown on Baltimore's first play from scrimmage, and three plays later Terrell Suggs strip-sacked Brady deep in Patriots territory to set up another touchdown that made it 14-0 less than five minutes in.

"We got him a little bit. The main focus was to get him off his spot," Suggs said. "We didn't want him comfortable because he is one of the greatest in the game. We did a pretty good job."

A perfect 8-0 in the regular season at Gillette Stadium, where Brady had never lost a playoff game, the Patriots heard the hometown fans booing just six minutes in after they went three-and-out on their second possession and then gave up a 34-yard punt return.

Kurt-ain call?

Win or lose, Kurt Warner is likely going to retire after this season, ESPN reports.

Warner, who has been an offseason fave of Bears fans demanding changes at quarterback before Jay Cutler's arrival, improved his playoff record to 9-3 with Sunday's win. He's already won one Super Bowl with St. Louis and has been league MVP twice.

Another NFL title certainly would cement Warner as one of the game's greatest.

Maybe the former Mr. Johnson should focus more on football and less on Twitter. He caught just two passes for 28 yards Saturday in Cincinnati's second straight loss to the N.Y. Jets.

... respect is to Rodney Dangerfield.

... Wiffle-bat-to-the-crotch videos are to YouTube. They make it much more fun and watchable.

... Leo Ebersole is to Chuck E. Cheese; he takes over and leaves the kids crying.

... Ed Hochuli is to NFL officiating: Flexing muscle.

... Mike Tyson used to be to boxing. Dominant, and only an incredible upset will stop them.

2 How did you enjoy the Bearless NFL playoffs?

I went shopping for pants. So it was much more enjoyable than watching the Bears.

They've been terrific. You can never see the Patriots fail too many times.

I doubt these "playoffs" actually exist, otherwise the Bears would try to get to them, wouldn't they?

Not as much as I would've enjoyed a Loveless Bears team.

It was hard, but it'll be easier now that the playoffs also are Patriots-less.

3 Why are NFL playoff ratings up?

Millions screwed up trying to Tivo "Patriot Games."

Years of plastic surgery have fooled people into thinking Jerry Jones is Ellen DeGeneres.

The Jay Leno Effect is more far-reaching than you'd think.

It's fun to watch Bill Belichick get his butt kicked in that goofy pompom ski cap.

Everyone's already seen "Avatar"—twice.

4 How would you advise the Bears to woo candidates for their open coaching positions?

Singing telegram from Ronnie WooWoo.

Pounce on them, subdue them, then make them bond ... a little "Avatar" humor there.

Same way I get wooed into the Five on Five each week—with a box of Milk Duds.

Is Ronnie available? Mike "woo" Martz "woo." Jeremy "woo" Bates "woo."

The smell of a smoking barbecue at an unguarded camp. Works wonders on me.

5 If you could say something to ex-Bull Ben Gordon when he's in town, what would it be?

"You're a medium talent." (Hat tip to Bill Murray.)

Jimmy and I will serenade him with "Since U Been Gone." We're not above that kind of thing.

The guy plays in Detroit; I think he's been punished enough.

"Can you teach the Bulls how to make a shot? And take Vinny back to Detroit with you!"

"Don't worry, you'll never be the worst Detroit team with the Lions in town."

QUACKS IN THE ARMOR? Ducks hand Hawks their second loss in two days

Chicago Tribune

Amazing how the 21,000-plus at the United Center exited without incident Sunday, what with the locusts swarming, the frogs collecting in the concourses and the snow piles going from a grimy gray to blood red in a matter of hours.

The Blackhawks had lost two in a row, after all. Women and children first.

OK, nothing so dramatic should be derived from a lost weekend that ended in a cavalcade of missed opportunities and a 3-1 loss to the Ducks.

It was merely the kind of confounding, frustrating evening that is bound to catch up to teams—even the exalted Hawks—and it resulted in the fifth regulation home loss all season and a bit of a down note going into a rare but welcome three-day stretch of no game action.

» A source close to Andre Dawson said Sunday that if the Hall of Fame decides to depict him wearing a Cubs cap, the Cubs have promised to have his No. 8 uniform number retired.

It was the first time since Dec. 11 that the Hawks had been held to one goal or fewer, ending a streak of nine straight games with at least four. But it wasn't for lack of trying. The Hawks piled up a 43-12 shot advantage—including 16-2 in the final period—but Ducks goaltender Jonas Hiller was basically impenetrable all night.

"It's frustrating, considering how many shots we had on the net tonight and how hard we worked for those chances," Hawks captain Jonathan Toews said.

"Other games, we've found ways to wear other teams down and usually by the third period, those pucks start going in for us, and they didn't tonight."

"[Hiller] didn't give up any loose stuff around the net," Hawks coach Joel Quenneville said. "He was smothering a lot of pucks, whether that was a lack of traffic or him being really Velcro-ish. He was effective."

The sour taste may linger for the next three days. But as disappointing as the weekend was, the Hawks will spend some downtime under a sky that is most certainly not falling.

"It's going to happen sometimes," Toews said. "Just leave it at that, learn from your mistakes, don't make it anything bigger than it actually is."

Half-price pizza

Osteria Via Stato, 620 N. State St. 312-642-8450

In honor of so-called National Pizza Week (that's every week in our book), get gourmet, Roman-style pies such as classic cheese, pepperoni, veggie, potato and more for about $6 each. 2:30-4:30 p.m. Through Friday.

Dance Chance

Ruth Page Center for the Arts, 1016 N. Dearborn St. 312-337-6543

Brevity is the name of the game at this local dance showcase, modeled after the open-mic concept. In 60 minutes, you'll see three new dance numbers and meet the artists behind them. 6 p.m. $3 suggested donation.

Mixtape Mondays

Exodus II, 3477 N. Clark St. 312-399-2695

The weekly soulful open-mic night continues with a roster of artists competing for a cash prize. Want to compete? BYO music and materials. 9 p.m. $7-$10.

Country and Western dance class

Dance Center Chicago, 3868 N. Lincoln Ave.

Get in line with dance whiz "Country Pat" Stamer, who starts a new six-week session in classic line and couples dances. 7 p.m. Through Feb. 16. $75. 773-339-5670

Whisky Passport Series

Mrs. Murphy & Sons Irish Bistro, 3905 N. Lincoln Ave. 773-248-3905

Learn about Scotch whisky with enthusiast Sue Pitkin—and a trio of pours. 7 p.m. $10. RSVP recommended.

TJ & Dave

10, 3541 N. Clark St. 773-880-0199

See what the buzz is behind T.J. Jagodowski and David Pasquesi. The comic duo is the current subject of a new documentary about improv, "Trust Us, This Is All Made Up." 11 p.m. $5.

Swords, sweat and sex.

That heady mix saturates "Spartacus: Blood and Sand," the epic drama premiering Jan. 22 on Starz.

The cable network's epic based on the life of the slave-turned-gladiator-turned-rebel-against-Rome, Spartacus (Andy Whitfield), leads the pack of midseason TV shows that are heavy on thrill, chills and heart-pounding action.

"It's hard-core, man," star Lucy Lawless said at Comic-Con last summer.

She should know. The former "Battlestar Galactica" co-star slashed her way to fame in the 1990s wielding sword and chakram as "Xena: Warrior Princess."

"Spartacus" isn't for the faint of heart. A cross between HBO's sexy "Rome" and the films "300" and "Gladiator," it delivers bold action both in the Coliseum and between the sheets.

"I'm pretty sure you haven't seen anything like this before on TV," writer and exec producer Steven S. DeKnight said.

Lawless' cold-blooded Lucretia crosses paths with Spartacus, a Thracian soldier sold into slavery, when he is bought by her husband to be molded into a moneymaking gladiator. Spartacus fights to survive so he can find his wife and free her from slavery.

Lawless remembers her fighting skills from "Xena," but she won't be using them. Lucretia's more sexy schemer than battle-hardened warrior princess.

"I get some action, buddy," she told a fan at Comic-Con. "It's just in the bedroom. I don't like Spartacus, but I sure like the other gladiators."

Television action scale

Several new and returning series raise viewers' blood pressures with their drama and butt-kicking action. Shows in the blue are a simmer, while those in the red sizzle. cw

Leverage

Blue Mountain State

9 p.m. Tuesday, Spike

Promising comedy about three freshmen at a football-crazy college.

Life Unexpected

8 p.m. Jan. 18, CW

Ex high-school sweethearts meet the kid they gave up for adoption. Thought I'd hate this dramedy, but I don't.

The Inbetweeners

8 p.m. Jan. 25, then 8:30 p.m. Wednesdays, BBC America

Hilarious high school coming-of-age comedy. Think "Superbad" with British accents.

The Ricky Gervais Show

8 p.m. Feb. 19, HBO

Haven't seen it this animated comedy, but I bet I'll love it.

The Pacific

9 p.m. March 14, HBO

The "Band of Brothers" team returns with another WWII saga.

Sons of Tucson

7:30 p.m. March 14, Fox

Seeing Tyler Labine in this new comedy makes me wish his CW show, "Reaper," had never been canceled.

Stargate Universe

April, Syfy

24

8 p.m. Sunday, Fox

Grandad Jack Bauer wants to retire. Yeah, right.

Spartacus: Blood and Sand

9 p.m. Jan. 22, Starz

Chuck

7 p.m. Mondays, NBC

Can Chuck Bartowski (Zachary Levi) call on his awesome new spy abilities to save the world? It's fun when he does and hilarious when he doesn't.

Human Target

7 p.m. Sunday, then Wednesdays starting Jan. 20, Fox

Mark Valley stars as a bodyguard-for-hire in this thriller that's heavy on action but light on making sense.

Burn Notice

9 p.m. Jan. 21, USA

Lost

7 p.m. Feb. 2, ABC

The roller coaster ride of a series comes to an end with 18 final hours of heart-stopping, mind-bending, time-hopping excellence.

HAPPY B-DAY!

Capricorn

Dec. 22-Jan.19

There's a new moon in your sign, and this is giving you some flirty ideas. If you've been secretly lusting after someone, make a sensual confession. You'll never know what might happen unless you put yourself out there.

Aquarius

Jan. 20-Feb. 18

You could become extremely attracted to someone who is your complete opposite, courtesy of Venus. Gypsy Air signs like you are usually drawn to free-spirited types. But now you're lusting after a banker or an accountant. Maybe there's something in the water.

Pisces

Feb. 19-March 20

The solar eclipse is giving you some funny ideas. Maybe you should propose to your high school sweetheart, even though you haven't seen her in 10 years. Or perhaps you should settle down with that sexy jailbird who just got out of prison. Then again, maybe not.

Aries

March 21-April 19

A lusty moon is inspiring you to showcase your slutty side. If your partner is used to seeing you as sweet and demure, you'll attack him with whips and handcuffs. If your girlfriend always wants to talk about her feelings, you'll go into raw, animal, beast man mode.

Taurus

April 20-May 20

You could surprise yourself by demanding something unusual in the bedroom. Usually you're content just to go with the flow, but the lunar eclipse is turning you into a sex freak. You'll demand spanking. You'll start a hot role-playing scenario. Stir things up.

Gemini

May 21-June 21

As Mercury finally goes direct, sanity will return. You'll call up that girl you broke up with at the holidays and beg her to let you come back. You'll e-mail that guy you were cruel to and apologize. Leave it to Gemini to milk the whole Jekyll and Hyde thing for all it's worth.

Cancer

June 22-July 22

You're going through a personal metamorphosis. The sun has you delving deep into who, what, where and why. You're trying to figure out why you keep having romantic problems. It's a good process. Stick with it.

Leo

July 23-Aug. 22

You could be sending mixed messages to a longtime love. Don't string someone along just because you're lethally afraid of being alone. Being with the wrong person is the worst kind of loneliness. A moon opposition says aim for honesty.

Virgo

Aug. 23-Sept. 22

As Mercury finally goes direct, you're back to business. Just don't get into total workaholic mode. Your honey might require more loving caresses and personal attention than you're expecting to give him or her. Don't be neglectful.

Libra

Sept. 23-Oct. 23

You're willing to make a fresh start, even if things have been hard for you in the past. A new moon has you thinking about that happily-ever-after story. You can become a character in that story if you're willing to do a little homework.

Scorpio

Oct. 24-Nov. 21

Jupiter is entering a friendly sign, and it will remain there for a whole year. You'll find that those trouble spots like money, living situation and relationships flow a lot smoother for you in 2010. You're cashing in on some good karma.

Sagittarius

Nov. 22-Dec. 21

Your partner could be craving some sexual variety. Do your best to provide it. What's with the dull-as-toast dinner dates and the boring, vanilla sex? You're a Fire sign. You can do much better than that. The moon will offer you some lusty inspiration.

Derulo joins the Monster madness

Jason Derulo had enough on his mind when he joined Lady Gaga's Monster Ball tour, his first major one, about two weeks ago. But then the 20-year-old "Whatcha Say" singer was told the crowds had been chewing up the opening acts and spitting them out.

"There were a lot of horror stories," Derulo said Friday while sitting in his tour bus outside the Rosemont Theatre, where he performed with Gaga from Friday through Sunday. "The openers were having trouble because people were booing and chanting 'Gaga' during their performances. It was pretty bad."

Kid Cudi was the main opener for Gaga but dropped out of the tour Dec. 16, saying he wanted to focus on recording music and his acting commitments. As a result, Derulo, who came aboard just before Cudi left and was supposed to play a 20-minute set, was given Cudi's 30-minute time slot.

Derulo said he has managed to avoid the boos so far.

"I've gotten none of that," he said. "The audience has been incredible. The fans have been yelling at the top of their lungs."

How does Derulo's stage setup compare to Gaga's elaborate decor?

"Oh man, it's very, very different," he said, laughing. "She's on this platform, while my stage is flat and regular. And I don't have fog. I was planning for that stuff, but then I found out I couldn't have it. I had to backtrack and think of more organic ways to get the crowd going."

"But my time is coming very soon."

SIGHTINGS

» Lady Gaga visited Kuma's Corner on Saturday afternoon and tweeted about the Judas Priest burger (which includes bacon, apples and cranberries) and the "cheap beer." A manager at the notoriously crowded restaurant told me Gaga waited for a seat just like everybody else and eventually found a spot at the bar.

» Yankees center fielder Curtis Granderson hung out at Lumen on Friday night.

» Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski and his basketball team had dinner at Joe's Seafood, Prime Steak and Stone Crab on Tuesday night.

ABOUT THIS WEEK

» Harrison Ford attends the Chicago premiere of "Extraordinary Measures" on Tuesday at AMC River East 21.

» "Jersey Shore" stars Mike "The Situation" and Pauly D appear at Lumen on Friday. Fellow "Jersey" cast member Nicole "Snooki" appears at Manor nightclub that same night.

» Nick Jonas & the Administration perform at the Rosemont Theatre on Sunday.

» Cubs pitcher Carlos Zambrano celebrates the launch of his new charity, The Big Z Foundation, on Sunday at Fogo de Chao.

A 'Lantern' lovely

Blake Lively is the new green queen. The "Gossip Girl" actress has been cast opposite Ryan Reynolds in "Green Lantern" as Carol Ferris, a pilot who has a thing for guys who wear green tights and sparkly outer-space jewelry, or something like that. The movie is set to hit theaters June 17, 2011, variety.com reports.

Big love

Jared Fogle, the Subway commercial spokesman who lost 245 pounds, is about to gain a wife. He proposed to girlfriend Katie McLaughlin in November, according to people.com. Fogle tells the magazine he put on more than 40 pounds last year but plans to slim down in time for the nuptials next summer. "I'm going to look darn good in those wedding pictures!" he said.

Fox's new den

Megan Fox has a fancy new foxhole, reportedly paying just under $3 million for a home in Los Feliz, Calif., according to tmz.com. TMZ says the four-bedroom home has a swimming pool and a "media/pool table room," so at least guests can find some measure of entertainment while Megan's movies are screening.

BLUE IS THE NEW BLACK

"Avatar" was once again the top movie at the weekend box office, pulling in an estimated $48.5 million. The James Cameron behemoth also was the No. 1 movie of the year and it has pulled in a total of $1.34 billion worldwide, behind only "Titanic," which took in $1.84 billion back in the day. And, breathe.
